Annual shade-tree seedling sale begins soon

The annual shade-tree seedling sale sponsored by the Louisiana Department of Agriculture & Forestry will be February 26 - March 2 (Monday - Friday) at LDAF district offices throughout the state, according to Agriculture and Forestry Commissioner Bob Odom.

In Lafayette, dates will be February 22 - March 3 (Thursday - Saturday with the exception of Sunday, February 25).

LDAF has offices in Baton Rouge, Hammond, Clinton, DeRidder, Oberlin, Olla, Woodworth, Natchitoches, Haughton, Monroe and New Orleans. Some districts will hold sales in locations in addition to the headquarters. Dates and times will vary and will be publicized locally, Odom said.

"We suggest that interested individuals look for local publicity on the sale or call the LDAF district office in their area to find out exact times and places seedlings will be available," Odom said.

Two types of seedling packets will be offered. A pine packet will contain 20 seedlings and costs $3. The other packet will contain a total of six trees, including two baldcypress and one each of blackgum, green ash, shumard oak and river birch, also for $3. Packet species content may vary in some cases, depending on availability.

All seedlings will be year-old, bare-root seedlings. They will be available on a first-come basis and cannot be reserved in advance. "Some years we sell out of certain species before the week is out, especially some of the hardwoods, so we encourage people to come early during the sale," Odom said.

The tree species are native to Louisiana and well suited to the state's growing conditions. All are large trees at maturity and should be planted on sites where their limbs will not interfere with overhead utility lines or structures and roots not interfere with sewer lines, slab foundations, walkways or driveways as they mature.

Instructions for planting and care of the seedlings are included with the packets.

Lisa and Lauren, continued from page 10

Last year the Registers won an environmental award from Tyson for their poultry production practices. They were finalists for the Farm Bureaus's Young Farmer and Rancher award for three years and were recognized by the DeSoto Parish Chamber as Ag Business of the Year. The couple was also featured in a national USDA publication as a farming success story.

With all the awards and recognition, it's hard to believe Lisa entered the farm business with trepidation and a little reluctance. Joey had been raising cattle and horses when they met and married but didn't expand the operation to include poultry until 2000.

"January 29, 2000, was the day we signed papers in Mansfield at the lawyer's office (to purchase the breeder houses). Schools were closed because of the icy roads," Lisa recalls, explaining her uneasiness. "I have pictures of sheets of ice sliding off the roofs of our chicken houses. I remember asking Joey if he was positively sure we wanted to do this.

"We signed the contract with Tyson that morning in the egg cooler room, because it was warmer in there than anywhere else. Joey said if we had to, we would take the John Deere tractor to Mansfield, but we were going to sign those papers."

The same ice storm put many poultry producers in neighboring Arkansas out of business.

"It was a sickening feeling to know other chicken farmers lost their farms. We found out later, those houses were older and not made with the steel beams the newer farms now have," Lisa says. "That made my uneasiness somewhat better."

Uneasiness aside, Lisa has fully accepted her role as partner in the family farm. She sums up her job duties as paperwork – payroll and taxes – and making a good impression.

"I want the farm to look good and be clean," Lisa simply states. "My role is to make a good first impression. I also want to try to get more people, especially children, involved in agriculture."

She's made a good start at home.
